America and the New World State. By Norman Angell. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. 1915. 301 p. Price, $1.50.

In this book the author of "The Great Illusion" discusses opportunities of the United States of reconstructing relations between civilized nations of the world.

The World's Highway. By Norman Angell. Some notes on America's relation to Sea Power and non-military sanctions for the law of nations. New York: George H. Doran Company. 1915. Price, $1.50.

Discusses a plan to checkmate future wars of aggression by means of economic pressure brought to bear upon the offender. An aggressive nation according to this plan should be cut off from all trade and financial connections with the rest of the world, and the boycott should be made effective by sea-power. The author believes that the mere existence of a worldwide alliance for the purpose of exercising an economic boycott against an aggressive nation would be the best possible preventive of future wars.

I Accuse! (J'Accuse). By A German. Translated by Alexander Gray. New York: George H. Doran Company. 1915. 445 p. Price, $1.50 net.

A sensational book putting all blame for the outbreak of the present war on Germany. The author is a pacifist and applies Norman Angell's peace-theories to the issues of the present war. The book has been answered by Professor Schieman, of Germany, who calls it a "calumniation."

The Higher Patriotism. By John Grier Hibben. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons. 1915. 72 p. Price, 75 cents.

A book by the President of Princeton University, who first advocates the heeding of Kant's message and then an increase of armaments.

War and World Government. By Frank Crane. New York: John Lane & Co. 1915. Price, $1.00.

A collection of the author's clear-cut and well-known editorials relating to the peace problem.

The Fight for Peace. By Sidney L. Gulick. New York: Fleming H. Revell Co. 1915. 192 p. Price, 50 cents net.

This book is published for the Commission on Peace and Arbitration, under the authority of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It deals with the responsibility of the churches towards world-militarism and world-peace.

Europäische Wiederherstellung. By Alfred H. Fried. 139 p. Orell & Füssli, Zurich. 1915. Price, 50 cents.

This book on "the restoration of Europe" is a very timely study, applying the theories and teachings of scientific pacifism to the issues of the war. An English translation by Lewis S. Gannett will appear early in 1916.

League to Enforce Peace (American Branch). Printed by the League to Enforce Peace, 507 Fifth Avenue, New York City. 1915. 65 p.

Contains the addresses delivered at the Independence Hall conference, held at Philadelphia, Bunker Hill day (June 17, 1915), with the platform and history of the conference.

A Primer of Peace and War. The principles of international morality. Edited for the Catholic Social Guild. By Charles Plater. New York: P. J. Kenedy & Sons, 44 Barclay St. 1915. 282 p. Price, 80 cents.

This purports to be an exposition of the Catholic doctrine on war "rejecting alike the extremes of militarism and pacifism." The book amounts to little more than a shallow preachment upon "international morality" without pacifistic conviction or vision. It breathes an atmosphere of medieval fatalism, maintaining, as it does, that "there 'must' occur from time to time instances of unjust and obstinate invasions of genuine rights," and that war "remains the final means of preventing earth from becoming a pandemonium and humanity from lapsing into the brute."
